BACKGROUND INFO:

Joseph Takagi, Agent Budokan, is Control at the new Osaka offices. Budokan began his career at the Agency after he was recruited in prison by the Tokyo police to infiltrate a particular Yakuza "family". The police operation was compromised and Budokan nearly lost his life before escaping a Yakuza ambush, partly due to his exceptional martial arts skills and partly due to timely assistance by an Agency recruiter.

In gratitude to his new handler Budokan immersed himself in Agency operations across Asia, using a combination of stealth, cunning and perseverance to accomplish his assignments. His posting as Control in Osaka is in recognition of Budokan's success and dedication.

His commitment to the Agency has not come cheaply for Budokan. His dedication and work habits, excessive even in workaholic Japanese culture, caused his separation and subsequent divorce. He is now estranged from most family immediate and extended family members, an unspoken cause of shame in his Japanese culture. Budokan is now trying to "chill out" and achieve more balance but the challenges of his new position will likely make this impossible.
