BACKGROUND INFO:

Anthony Guiseppe is descended of Italian lineage, growing up on the mean streets of Queens while acting as a courier, and later, a wiseguy for the Mafia. He's done some things he's not proud of, things that led to the assassination of his wife and son in retaliation for a hit he did on a rival's wife for his Don.

Sickened by what he had become, Digger tried to leave the mob. A contract was put out on his life, and soon an Agency team found him through some of their inside men and aided him in faking his own death in exchange for information. Weeks later his Don's operation was hit, and many of Anthony's friends and "family" were slain. It is a sure bet that if he is seen in his old stomping grounds he will get the curb.

Guiseppe uses his network of inside men and loan sharks to get him the information he needs in the US and around the world. He is always on the lookout for the assassin that killed his family. Any information about this should be classified to keep him from going over the edge on a rampage, especially if the agent is on-mission when he gets the information.
