

CODENAME: Fauxshow

REPORT SECURITY CLEARANCE LEVEL: Beta

LAST NAME: Lyons FIRST NAME: Debra

DECEASED: No DATE:

GENDER: Female ALIAS: Slicer

RACE: Caucasian ALIAS: Icebreak

DOB: 3/28/1985 ALIAS:

ALLEGIANCE: The Agency

NAT ORIGIN: United States WEIGHT: 105 HAIR: Blonde

AGE: 24 EYES: Blue-Green MARITAL STAT: Single

HEIGHT: 5'8" EDUCATION: High School

PRIMARY ADDRESS: SECONDARY ADDRESS:

3100 Ocean Place Blvd.

Santa Monica CA 90405

ASSIGNED MISSIONS:

BACKGROUND INFO:

Reports of Lyons' electronic career are sketchy at best. Her entire persona is one of misdirection and guile. The striking blonde with the model-worthy physique garnered nicknames such as Slicer and Icebreak for her ability to spontaneously reduce security systems down to spare parts in minutes instead of hours.

Debra's greatest achievement prior to her Agency work was to apply for a technical security position with AUI, a pioneering company in the field of home voice-automation. She launched her virus on the test trial day, trapping all fourteen of the millionaire investors that had installed it within their mansions while their electronics went haywire.

Lyons has walked away from tense situations several times by feigning ignorance of computer knowledge, playing her persona of a bubblegum-chewing airhead blonde to the hilt to misdirect investigations. Though many have heard of Fauxshow in the cyberspace, few know that she is actually a woman, a view that Fauxshow reinforces by using masculine language whenever she ventures online. She disdains high living, choosing instead to spend her well-earned Agency paycheck on the latest and greatest tech.

