BACKGROUND INFO:

There are very few people in the record business that don't know the name Johnny Sliver.

Originally a guitarist for an up-and-coming LA rock band "The Junkyard Gods," he found his real talent in the record industry itself. Soon after the major label release of the band's first album "Incident on the Right Shoulder," he successfully brokered the most lucrative contract in the history of Geffen Records, despite lackluster sales. After some fighting within the band over this contract money, he left it to join Geffen as a talent scout and producer.

Since that time he's climbed the ladder quickly, carving out a reputation in the biz as a master of negotiations and media spin. He successfully plays both sides of the table; while musicians see him as one of them, the record company believes he has their best interests at heart. Many believe he is destined to become the youngest President of Geffen Records ever.

Has been a member of the Beverly Hills Gun Club for several years, and has become an excellent shot. Well connected in the media, and a major power-player Los Angeles. Recruited by the Agency for these exact reasons.
