BACKGROUND INFO:

Samantha Killian is descended of Irish parents, but has lived most of her life in the United States. She displayed an innate curiosity as a child that led her to question everything. This trait only strengthened as she aged. She also learned to impersonate people she liked to gain affection, leading up to a short-lived career on Broadway before she returned to school at the University of Colorado to become a research assistant, and later, a lawyer. Samantha has since gained a reputation as a racy, sexy woman that will not hesitate to use her beauty to further her agency's goals. Many of her comrades first view her as an object of lust, but later come to respect her prowess and sleuthing abilities once they see past her alluring façade. Her interests include high-performance muscle cars, competitive swimming, and puzzles of all types, though complex codes seem to be her specialty. The agent also shows an inherent phobia of spiders.
