BACKGROUND INFO:

Dagher Bjorn was born in Iceland, where he worked on fishing vessels until his mid-teens. Soon the call of the ocean was not enough, so he left suddenly and traveled the world. His extensive knowledge of North America and the Middle East have served him well. He migrated to the United States and became a citizen in 1999, though he hopes to travel to the Middle East again once tensions have cooled.

The burly wheelman loves his women, his cars, and his teammates, in that order. His romantic conquests have become legend, at least in his own mind. His powerful physique, rich sense of humor, and striking good looks attract the women wherever he travels.

The Icelander still loves the ocean, and tries to get away to see his mother and father in Iceland whenever possible. The Agency tries to keep close tabs on him so he can be brought in for situations involving well-thought plans combined with brute force and fast getaways. He prefers direct, lethal strikes that leave no witnesses.

Dagher Bjorn, who's name means "Day Bear," enjoys going for vacations in the most rugged of terrain, sometimes disappearing into the heavy forests of Canada for weeks at a time with no supplies.
