BACKGROUND INFO:

Former hippy of the Woodstock era, Wasteland is a peaceful soul, dedicated to his work in developing more powerful, faster acting poisons including, but not limited to hallucinogenic and psychotropic drugs. He's not ashamed of his past. At least what parts of it He can remember. His drug usage led him to take classes at several community colleges throughout California studying chemistry and pharmacology. He willingly admits to using Himself as a test subject on occasion.

Agency Side Note:

From the 1950s through the 70s, during the height of the Cold War, the CIA conducted LSD experiments under the code name MK-ULTRA, in hopes of controlling social engineering and finding a truth serum for more effective interrogation techniques. Although unconfirmed, do to the time frame of the known experiments; Wasteland may have been a participant in these experiments. The documents and list of subjects pertaining to the University of Sacramento experiments were removed when, sometime in the 70s, the CIA ordered that all such records from the period be destroyed. Some caution should be taken.
