MISSION BRIEFING:

The Agency is led to believe that Cuban politician Francisco Veralez is engaging in illegal negotiations with known terrorist organizations. He has a secured beach house in Miami, Florida where suspected negotiations are taking place. He has employed the services of an armed security team to secure the premises at all times. Your mission is to plant an Agency issued audio bug in the meeting room of the beach house, in which the Agency can then monitor and gather any incriminating evidence. The Agency has obtained a schematic drawing of the Francisco Veralez beach house from the past occupant, which Agents can use for added infiltration information. No one must know or find out about the audio bug attempt, and casualties must be kept to a minimum so as not to arouse suspicion.

MISSION DEBRIEFING:

Mission completed 6:30 pm on 11/24/2006.

Agents bypassed minor altercation at Miami International Airport in route to stakeout of Francisco Veralez's beach house. Agents set up head quarters at five-star hotel, with no reservations, four miles south of mission objective, after fabrication and persuasion of cover story of Agent posing as an international movie mogul. The Agency wired a transfer of funds to Agents credit card, upon request from the Agent, so as to provide further authentication of said cover story. Agents acquired extensive detailed background dossier on target, which after thorough evaluation, provided Agents with a lead of illicit funds being used for illegal prostitution and/or escort services with the intent of sexual activities. Agents convinced escort service, in which owner was reported to have been more than compliant with all Agents requests, to have one Agent pose as prostitute, so as to gain entry into beach house to complete mission. Agent completed mission of planting audio bug in the crack of support beam of meeting table, in the meeting room of the beach house. A tactical transfer of neurotoxin to one of security guards, along with some involuntary and voluntary disgorging of stomach bile, led to Agents exit of the premises. The Agency received and recorded transmissions between Francisco Veralez and known foreign terrorist identities, in which warrants, indictments and arrest were made to all involved.
