MISSION BRIEFING:

You are to see to the destruction or recovery of Inapo Saran's Vehicle left by agents in Lake Nasser near Abu Simbel, Egypt during a previous mission, before the lake is drained for foundation work on the dam. There can be no association made between this mission and the former one. Because of the urgency and time restraints of this mission, the Agency has disallowed deliveries.

Rendezvous with your contact at the listed time and place. He has already made the appropriate flight plans once you have arrived in Morocco. Take caution not to be discovered by the militant groups and tribes throughout the area. If discovered and/or captured, they will use you in whatever way they see fit to broaden their reign of power over that particular area.

MISSION DEBRIEFING:

Agents met their contact and learned, in more detail, the objective and results of the mission previous to theirs. Taking a modified HU-16B Albatross, the agents survived an emergency landing in the Libyan Desert. Agent Piranha, taking charge of the group in her native country, led the team to their primary destination. Working in the light of day, the agents fished around to reach their objective location. Diving down, the agents found Inapo and his guards in a van sitting on the bottom of Lake Nasser, Egypt. The agents removed from the van and brought back to the Agency all occupants, markings and evidence of any Agency involvement in its initial disappearance.

A search, later performed by the Agency for the downed Albatross, came up empty and thought to have been swallowed up by the constantly moving desert sands.
