MISSION BRIEFING:

The Agency has many contacts throughout the world. Some of these contacts transmit classified government intelligence information back to the Agency. They are always at risk, and sometimes are in need of protection. One such contact is asking for a complete extraction from her country and a new life and identity created, before her cover is blown. Your mission is to devise a fake assassination attempt on Chan Juan Shu. The Agency will provide your team with one surgically altered corpse, so as to allow officials a positive identification of the deceased contact. She is married to Lei Wu Chang, who is the son of the acting current military general, to the Chinese army. Rumors tie him to many terrorist and/or extremist groups in Eastern Asia. In two days, will mark the 500th anniversary of the Dragon King, and a rather large and public festival will be taking place outside the temple, of the Summer Palace area of Beijing. Your flight to Beijing, China leaves in thirty-five minutes. Rendezvous with your contact at the designated time and place for further details.

MISSION DEBRIEFING:

Mission completed 11/12/06.

Agents flew to Beijing, China and proceeded to set up head quarters in a hostel within the Beijing University student living district. Agents drove to make contact with Chan Juan Shu on the ferryboat to South Lake Isle. After a vast amount of consultation and negotiation on the part of the Agents, along with repeated electrical hiccups to the Agent's computer and tracking peripherals, the contact was instructed to wear an unknown tracer bug which was embedded into a pendant depicting the Dragon King, and to rally at the Hall of Distant View the next day at 13:00 hours. A very thorough surveillance of the South Lake Isle was performed. The Agents contacted the Agency and requested a bus resembling one of the Beijing transit tour buses, two Molotov cocktails and the surgically altered corpse to be delivered to the Wulu Train Station the following day. Multiple squads of Chinese soldiers were present at the festival as Agent rendezvoused with contact and delivered a substantial dose of knockout poison encased in one of the Agent's rings to the unsuspecting contact. Contact rapidly became ill and blacked out as she tried to make it back to the festivities. She was immediately rushed by ambulance to the nearest hospital near the Beijing University where the other two Agents were waiting. As the ambulance, followed by two black sedans, raced across the 17 Arch Bridge and down the main road, the Agents executed a failed pit maneuver and slammed the 1.5 ton bus square into the ambulance, pinning it up against a building killing the driver and blocking any progress from the other black sedans. Agent prevented any unwanted military advancement by hurling a flash-bang and Molotov cocktail between the bus and the sedans, which engulfed two soldiers in fire, and making two others retreat in fear. Agents proceeded to eliminate the other ambulance personnel and replace the contact with the corpse and then torching the body to conceal any recognizable evidence using the other Molotov cocktail. All Agents and contact advanced back to the airport and out of the country alive. The Chinese press announced a successful assassination of Chan Juan Shu the following day.
